DECLARATION OF THE INITIATORS AND PARTICIPANTS OF THE SAVE FOOD CONGRESS 2011

We consider the global loss of foodstuffs to be one of the most urgent problems in the global community.

We would like to help guarantee safe food for a constantly growing global population and to save valuable resources. People in less developed countries should participate fairly in the economic opportunities of the global food flow.

We demand, wherever required and possible, a different method of handling the food available. We know that the challenges in the regions of the world vary greatly.

Where valuable food rots away unused on fields, we support the search for efficient agricultural processes and sustainable development on site. Where food is ruined in the food chain, we encourage concepts which focus on better logistics and suitable packaging. Where political relations stand in the way of reducing food loss, we demand that the responsible body takes action. Where food producers and trade can contribute, we inspire businesses to take appropriate measures. Where consumers waste foodstuffs, we fight for more respect for food.

With the SAVE FOOD initiative, we want to help to fight against food loss and waste across the world.
